THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Bonawe, Iron Furnace comprises the extensive and well preserved remains of the Bonawe Iron Works. The area to be scheduled is in four distinct parts or sub-areas. The largest part includes the pier, the furnace area and the lade. It extends 10m out from all sides of the pier (which is defined to include the now derelict wooden piles beyond the end of the stone structure). The area is defined to the W by the High Water Mark before continuing south to follow the boundary of the area in the care of the Secretary of State for Scotland round to the lade. The full length of the lade is included in the scheduled area within a strip 30m wide centred on the lade. To the N and E the area is defined by field boundaries and includes the remains of the stables. There are several exclusions from this area. The roofed sections of the workers' cottages are excluded as are various buildings near the pier as marked on the map extract. This sub-area is irregular in shape. The two reservoirs associated with the iron works form two further parts of the area to be scheduled. In both cases the area to be protected is defined as 10m out from the normal edge of the water. This gives one area around Lochandhu which is irregular in shape and measures roughly 130m N-S by 110m and a second area in the grounds of Bonawe House which is also irregular and measures roughly 60m N-S by 60m. Both sub-areas are marked in red on the accompanying map. The fourth area to be scheduled is an area of open field which is covered with small ridges roughly 30cm high made of stone and slag from the iron furnace. This sub-area is roughly rectangular in plan measuring some 300m NNW-SSE by 150m. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Glenorchy and Inishail and the County of Argyll as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which forms part of the subjects described in Disposition by Marriage Settlement Trustees of Vivian William Huntington and Diana Mabel Palmer in favour of Nicholas Charles Huntington, Peter William Huntington, Richard Ian Huntington and Anthony Patrick Huntington dated 28 September and 5 October and recorded in the Division of the General Register of Sasines for the County of Argyll on 7 November all in the year 1990 (the present owners whereof being Nicholas Charles Huntington, 83 Holloway Road, London, Peter William Huntington, Corf House, Taynuilt, Argyll, Richard Ian Huntington, 22 Warbrook Road, Bullsbrook, Western Australia and Anthony Patrick Huntington, 43 Warwick Road, Coventry), is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Secretary of State for Scotland to be of national importance compiled and maintained by him under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.
